

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS TEACHING FELLOWSHIPS 2023-2024 ACADEMIC YEAR

Sciences Po welcomes applications from post-doctoral and doctoral students who are in the final phases of their PhD for one-year teaching positions on one of three English-speaking undergraduate campuses in France: Le Havre, Menton or Reims. Each campus provides the core undergraduate curriculum of Science Po in addition to a geographic specialisation in international relations study, culminating in a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Social Sciences and Humanities. Coursework in Economics, History, Law, Political Science, Political Theory, Sociology and Quantitative Methods applied to Social Sciences is taught in English. The area of expertise of successful applicants will be relevant to the disciplines taught at Sciences Po and to the regional focus of each campus. Given the international nature of the Teaching Fellowship, applications from Sciences Po university partners are strongly encouraged.

The Reims Campus hosts two geographic specialisations, on North America and Africa, the Menton Campus hosts the Mediterranean and Middle-East specialisation, and the Le Havre Campus hosts the Asia and the Pacific specialisation.

Teaching Fellowships will be offered for the 2023-24 academic year as follows:

Reims Campus (7 Fellowships) in the following disciplines:

- Economics/quantitative methods for social sciences
- History (2 Fellowships)
- Law
- Political science
- Sociology
- Political theory (political humanities).

Menton Campus (2 Fellowships) in the following disciplines:

- Law
- Sociology.

Le Havre Campus (2 Fellowships) in the following disciplines:

- Political science
- History.

1. TASKS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

As an integral part of the academic learning community, Teaching Fellows will be responsible for a teaching portfolio in relation to their disciplinary specialties and the core curriculum needs on each campus. The courses will be taught in English.

SciencesPo

The teaching commitment for the academic year is 128 lecture course hours, based on a standard French contract. For further details, please see the framework for pedagogical activity for Sciences Po Faculty. Fellows are expected to be present on campus for the duration of the academic year.

2. LENGTH OF STAY

Fellowships will begin at the end of August 2023.

Each semester covers a duration of 15 weeks, including an orientation week, a week-long recess and 10-day final examination period. The autumn term is from September to December, the spring term is from January to May. For detailed dates of the 2023-2024 academic year, see the academic calendar, which is updated each spring.

Fellowship contracts are for one calendar year, with the possibility of a one-year renewal. Teaching Fellows are expected to settle their residence near campus.

3. COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS

The Fellowship is a full-time contract and cannot be held alongside other contractual commitments. Fellowship stipends are €2,308 gross per month, paid for the period from 28 August 2023 to 27 August 2024, and include full health benefits from the French national system with access to resources and facilities on all Sciences Po campuses.

4. REQUIREMENTS

Successful applicants will have completed a PhD or are in the process of submitting their dissertation in one of the following fields: Economics, History, Law, Political Science, Political Theory, Sociology or Quantitative Methods for Social Science. Their research and teaching interests should be relevant to the regional focus of the chosen campus.

Teaching experience is strongly preferred and fluency in English is mandatory. While not required, applicants with linguistic ability in French or other non-English languages are appreciated.
